Tradition, innovation and leadership

Since the founding in 1936 by Louis Crotti, the grandfather of the present Chief Executive Officer, San Remo has built the Australasian market for pasta.

San Remo has drawn on their Italian heritage and knowledge of pasta making and added the highest technology and strategic marketing to achieve their position.

Today this wholly, privately-owned Australian company exports to 43 countries in both hemispheres.

San Remo is a major pasta producer in Australia.

Its manufacturing site is one of the true 'hyper' plants of the world and it uses state of the art manufacturing and packaging equipment including 'robotics' and 'world's best' practice.

San Remo products are quality accredited to standard Australian / New Zealand ISO 9001:2000 incorporating HACCP food safety principals.

Managing the chain

As part of this commitment to quality, San Remo closely monitors every part of the production and supply operation. This includes closely inspecting the local durum wheat crops (grown in ideal Australian conditions) and its harvesting.
